DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Species A, drawn to a method for trimming a functional resistor.

Species B, drawn to a method for providing and trimming a circuit.

Species C, drawn to a method for trimming a functional resistor.

Species D, drawn to a method for calculating a temperature coefficient of resistance of a functional resistor.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Art Unit: 3729

2. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Species A, drawn to claims 1-8 and 56.

Species B, drawn to claims 9-16 and 57.

Species C, drawn to claims 17-25 and 58.

Species D, drawn to claims 50-53 and 59.

The following claim(s) are generic: There is no generic claim.

3. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Species A has a special technical feature of placing a plurality of thermally-trimmable functional resistors on a substrate such that they are thermally-isolated.

Species B has a special technical feature of trimming the at least one resistive element to trim the circuit by thermal cycling.

Species C has a special technical feature of subjecting the functional resistor to a heat source having a power dissipation geometry adapted to obtain a substantially constant temperature distribution across the functional resistor when a temperature of the functional resistor is raised for trimming purposes.

Species D has a special technical feature of measuring a resistance value of the functional resistor at a plurality of temperatures and calculating the temperature coefficient of resistance based on the measured resistance values.

Art Unit: 3729

4. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Paul D. Kim whose telephone number is 571-272-4565.
